We Hear You ...

Powerhouse Lineup

Congratulations on a wonderful February issue! The article on the smart and sexy Natalie Portman ["Force of Nature"] shows that she is a class act. Also, the exquisite Dita Von Teese is my personal style icon and fellow vintage-lover, so I really enjoyed "The Showgirl Next Door" feature on her L.A. home.

—ALAINA JONES, PACIFICA, CALIF.

Options Cut Short

I was sad to see there wasn't more of a focus on tall women in "You Look Amazing!" [February]. In the future, please include longer styles for those of us who love our height.

—KRISTINA ROZENBERG, MINNEAPOLIS

Something Sweet

I was excited to read "Sugar Rush!" in the February issue and to discover all the amazing things Christina Tosi does at Momofuku Milk Bar in New York. Yum!

—MONIKA DZIAMKA, NEW YORK

Natural Wonder

Thank you for featuring Natalie Portman on the cover of your February issue. The story was insightful and portrayed what a down-to-earth person she is. I loved reading that her daily uniform consists of sweatpants and a T-shirt! Who would have thought?

—ROCHELLE GAN, ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

He's the Bom!

Matt Bomer was absolutely the perfect choice for Man of Style in February. It was great to see all the layers beneath the daredevil ex-con he plays on White Collar. I love that he's a jeans-and-T-shirt guy at heart, even though his character, Neal Caffrey, has single-handedly revived the fedora as America's sexiest hat. It was also funny to hear that wearing nice suits on TV has rubbed off on him in real life. I'll definitely be watching Season 3!

—MADDIE CRAWFORD, KANSAS CITY, KAN.

Chrome Sweet Chrome

Your December feature "Community Property" was adorable. I fell in love with Joel McHale's house and his wife's sense of décor. What really caught my eye was the chrome bed. I'd be forever grateful if I knew where to find it!

—NORA STRATHMORE, LOS ANGELES

Editor's note: The bed is by interior designer Elizabeth Gordon and is available by custom order at 323-924-5811; price upon request.

All Ages Welcome

I'm a 55-year-old teacher who likes InStyle because I do not feel excluded from your pages—they address the needs and wants of all age groups. When students and peers compliment me on my sense of style, I attribute it to you. Thanks for not ostracizing those of us over 50 who are interested in fashion.

—RITA WILSON, MOON TOWNSHIP, PA.

CORRECTION The Klorane Nourishing treatment shampoo shown in Deals & Steals (February, p. 166) is not sulfate-free. It is free of silicone and sodium chloride.

FUTURE SUBSCRIBER

My husband recently snapped this picture of our daughter Bailey. It seems I'm not the only one at our house who looks forward to receiving your magazine!
